Dear Jeff,

It has been about a month since Furia came home from camp. Myself as well as anyone that saw her behavior beforehand has been thoroughly impressed with her progress.

Upon arrival at Cedarshire, she was overweight and hardly listened. She'd sit on command, but stand back up right away. She was also impossible to walk and would pull everywhere to get what she wanted. Now with me being 95 pounds and her 75 pounds, the situation was just plain unbearable at times.

Since she came home, she walks calmly on a lead, sits when I stop walking, lies down on command and she actually stays which is just plain amazing. She has also lost weight and gained some muscle mass, which is very important for a bulldog. She handles the heat much better and seems to enjoy the outdoors more. In just 4 weeks she became a completely different and far more enjoyable pet.

I thoroughly appreciate you taking her and getting her to the stage she is at.

Sincerely,
